How to log on to the Global Supplier Portal to access the eSourcing training module

Guidance for Rolls-Royce Aerospace Purchasing suppliers

5th June 2013

Getting started on eSourcing

- As a supplier, you will need to log in to and navigate the Rolls-Royce Global Supplier Portal to access eSourcing and do business with us
- In case you or other members of your staff are not familiar with the Global Supplier Portal, the following slides show you how to access the eSourcing Training Module, which will help you to:
  - Respond to an RFx or other invitation from Rolls Royce
  - View contracts that you have with Rolls-Royce and if necessary initiate amendments
  - Understand where to go for further help
- Once you have accessed the eSourcing Training Module, the training will be in two stages, with separate sessions for eRFx and eContracts
- You will also be invited to attend a separate live WebEx session, where you can interact with a trainer and have your questions answered
- Please ensure that your staff who need to use the GSP are registered on Exostar, and that their licences are up to date

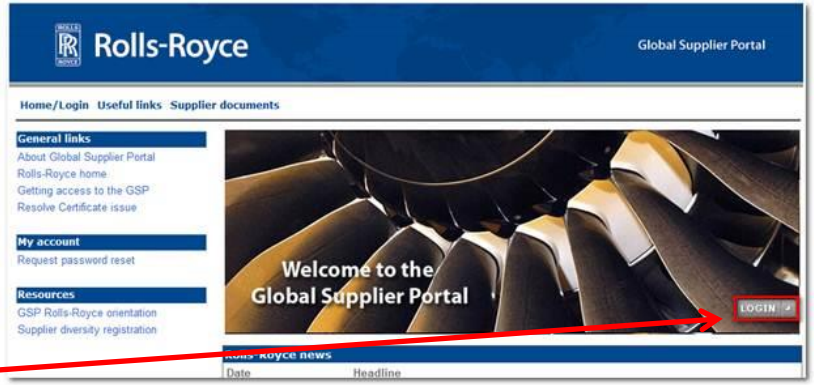
Accessing the GSP #1

To get access to eSourcing Training, first open the Global Supplier Portal (GSP) https://suppliers.rolls-royce.com/



Click on the 'LOGIN' button on the right hand side

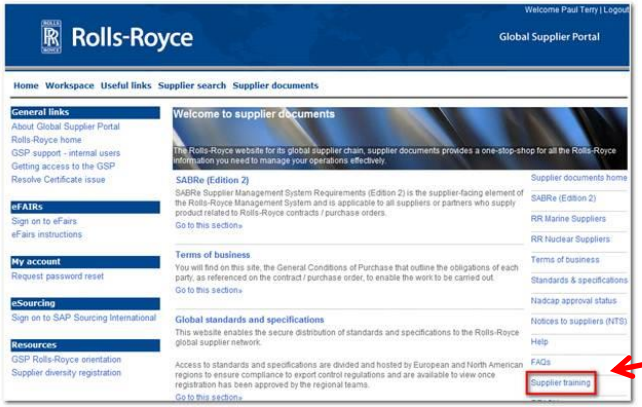
In the next screen, Windows Security, click on 'OK'

Type in your user ID and password and click on 'LOGIN'

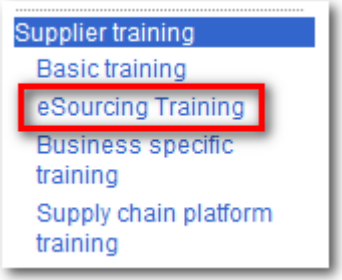
Accessing the GSP #2

In the ‘Secure’ area of the GSP click on ‘Supplier documents’

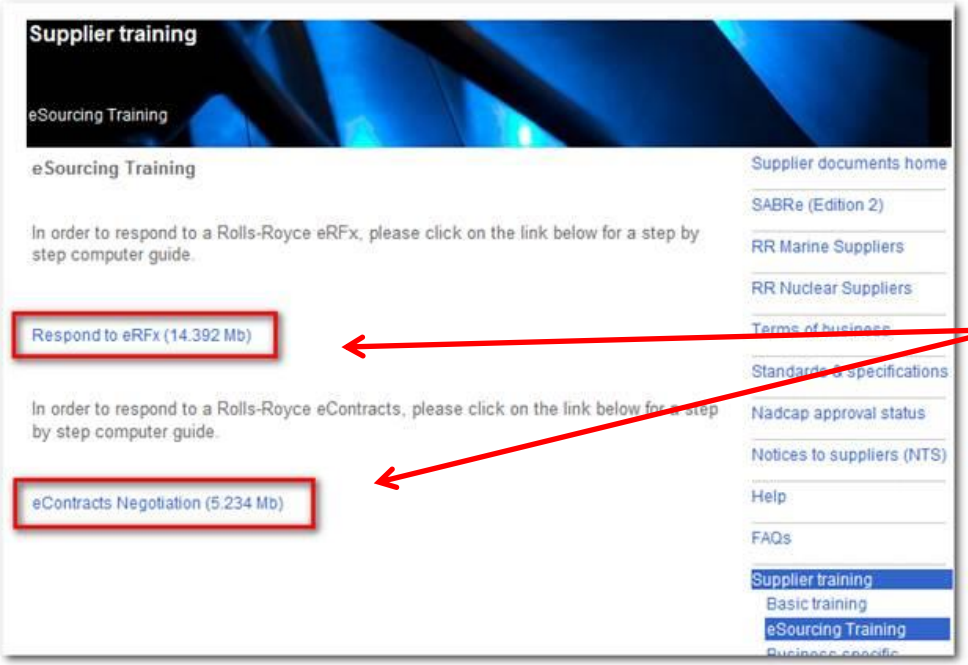
On the right navigation pane towards the bottom, click on ‘Supplier training’



From the drop-down list, click on ‘eSourcing Training’



Accessing the GSP #3



The eSourcing Training page should now be visible

Click on the links to load the ‘Step by step computer guides’ for eRFs and eContracts

These ‘Step by step’ guides may take a few minutes to load, so please be patient - many thanks
